PROJECTS

Weather | Global Weather Data Interface

A simple, yet informative weather website using the OpenWeather API to acquire the current weather of any city around the world.

The goal for this project was to fetch API data and display said data in a presentable manner.

An OpenWeather API key is required to use the demo.

PassGen | Secure Password Generator

A highly customizable password generation experience that is all handled client side for extra security.

The goal for this project was balancing code complexity with code readability.
